Proceedings of the Legislature.

FRANKFORT.—March 2.—Bills passed authorizing the Ohio Valley Telephone Company, giving sheriffs and execrifiers two years further time to collect uncollected taxes and fee bills. Fixing the boundary line between Hart and Lawrence counties, and Garfield County to issue bonds for certain purposes. To provide for funding of the debt of Harrison County. For the government of mass-meetings and political conventions in Kentucky. Creating a new city of Bell Green and erect and maintain a system of electric lights. Amending charter of city of Louisville relating to privileges of policemen—protecting of candidates for office.

HOGES.—Bills passed: To provide for holding two additional terms of the Christian Circuit Court. To provide for registration of voters in the city of Lexington. To amend an act relating to the election of Commonwealth witnesses in felony cases and regulating the manner of claiming attendance. To incorporate the Trimmers and Breeders' Association of Marion County. Senate and House introduced the Pocahontas Bill of Fulton. Senate Bill to incorporate Frankfort Water Company. For the benefit of Stony Point and Seaman's Turnpike road in Bourbon County. To incorporate the Lexington Industrial School. To prohibit the sale of spurious, vicious and male liquors in the county of Larue.

FRANKFORT.—March 2.—SENATE.—Bills passed: Incorporating the Hartford Railroad Company; House bill giving the sheriff of Marion County power to issue warrants May to execute his official bond; House bill amending an act to establish the county of Knott; House bill amending an act appropriating the State into congressional districts; to provide for the election of delegates to the convention of the Commonwealth School District No. 27, in Boyd County; to regulate continuances in criminal and penal cases. Senator Alford of Lexington, asked leave to introduce a bill to prohibit the removal of the State Capital from Frankfort.

HOGES.—The bill incorporating the Economic Heating Company, of Louisville, giving it the exclusive right to sell and vend natural gas for ten years in the city of Louisville was reported. The committee reported in favor of only ten. The Hewitt revenue bill was then reported by the committee and an attempt was made to postpone its consideration until next week, but through dilatory motions were made to prevent a vote until the hour of adjournment arrived. It came up to-morrow as unfinished business.

FRANKFORT.—March 3.—SENATE.—Bill passed: Incorporating the Illinois and Peoria Bridge Company; prohibit the consumption of intoxicating liquors in Lincoln County; prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors within one mile of Park, in Barren County.

HOGES.—Bill introduced: Amending section 16, article 1, chapter 6 of general laws, so that it will not be necessary to consent to the fuel necessary for prison purposes; giving the County and Circuit Court Clerks the further time of two years to collect their fee bills; to require railroad companies to have and keep in their possession the name of the chief officer or agent in that country, upon which summons may be served.

FRANKFORT.—March 4.—SENATE.—Mr. Gilbert called up a joint resolution from the Committee on Banks and Insurance, calling for information from the Governor to be had as they make monthly reports, as required by law. It was adopted. The Senate then took up and passed the bill giving ten years further time to sheriffs, ex-sheriffs and constables to collect and file their bills. The report of the State Geologist was presented and referred to the Committee on Public Expenditures. Mr. Feland offered a joint resolution looking to a final adjournment on April 1. Mr. Hoge's resolution to suspend the rules and take up a resolution was defeated, and it consequently lies over one day. The Senate then adjourned.

HOGES.—Representatives Thomas and Jackson had a few words this morning over a remark made by a member of the House. Mr. Thomas: "What would you do?" Mr. Jackson: "Wait for some time." The winged peace finally spread her wings over the threatened battlefield, and all was serene. Mr. Owens introduced his first bill this session, and it passed. An act regulating the exemption of persons engaged in carrying attachment, distress, for rent and fee bills, in this Commonwealth. The remainder of the session was devoted to local bills.

FRANKFORT.—March 5.—SENATE.—Bills passed: Authorizing the Board of County Court to levy an annual tax to pay ordinary expenses; to authorize the trustees of the city of Stanford to issue bonds to pay off outstanding indebtedness, and buy street lamps; the resolution to remove the capital was carried. The bill to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors from express offices, attachment, distress, for rent and fee bills, was favorably reported by the Committee on Appropriations; the Senate did nothing of any importance, and adjourned at half past twelve.

HOGES.—Mr. Bobbitt offered the following resolution: "Whereas it appears from reliable information which struck this House like a cold wave from the frozen zone of poverty that the bottom of the State Treasury has been reached, and that our poor old patriarchal State is in imminent danger, and, whereas, she protected us in our fancy; therefore, it is resolved, that we will not desert her in distress, but will continue to serve without compensation, and will remain here, and, whereas, the autumn insects shall plaintively predict our approaching fall." The first bill in the order of the day was an act to prohibit the sale of liquor in Carter County, which called forth the following speech from Mr. Logan: "Logan got the floor, and called attention to the outrageous provisions of the bill. He said it allowed a hotel keeper to be convicted and fined without ever being arrested or summoned. If we pass this bill, we will be the apex in the monument of our absurdities." It will be a solemn acknowledgment that we are incapable of taking care of ourselves, much less make laws for others. After half an hour spent in discussion of the bill, the bill was passed and the House adjourned.

Miscellaneous Items.

THEANER TATE.—has notified Auditor Hewitt that he could pay no more money on his warrants. The cash in the treasury is exhausted, and those who have claims against the State must wait until some more comes in. The members of the Legislature have applied for their per diem, but they can not get it and will have to wait with the others.
